The shoot

Once you have selected which boudoir package you'd like, simply get in touch so we can put a date in the diary. Most of the photo shoots currently happen at the weekend, but that is soon due to expand into the week.

On the day of your session, you will be welcomed and offered refreshments, and we will have a short discussion about what you can expect from the shoot and how you can get the very best experience from it.

During your shoot, I will guide you every step of the way, with my main goal being to provide a safe, comfortable and fun environment for your photoshoot. I will direct and coach you into the most beautiful shots.

“I’m nervous!”

This is completely normal. I hear these exact words from every single client, and you’re not the only one who is unsure of what to expect of a boudoir photo shoot. Most of the clients that you see on the website gallery have never done a boudoir shoot before, and all of them have said the same thing: they’re nervous, or un-photogenic or awkward... not here... I promise!

My main objective is that you feel 100% comfortable from the moment you walk through the door. I will coach you through the entire process from start to finish so you feel relaxed and amazing. All my clients eventually tell me that they don’t know what they were worried about, and some have returned for a second shoot! All you need to do is turn up with your lingerie, hair and make-up done and I do the rest!

What to bring?

Planning what to wear is all part of the fun, with life's big decisions...strappy or lacy? All black or lots of color? Naughty or nice? Bring them all, so we have a variety of styles to work with.

Not a lingerie person? Awesome! This is a great time to think outside the box and select simple pieces that can be used to find your own version of sexy. Loose and flowy fabrics are great, like a silk blouse or a white tee-shirt with simple underwear.

The most important tip: whatever you decide to bring, I want you to look at your images for years to come and think "wow I looked amazing!" and not "what was I thinking?!".

Retouching

Another question I get asked a lot is, “I have stretch marks/cellulite/acne, can I still do a boudoir photo shoot?” The answer is YES! Every image you see on my website has been sensitively retouched and finished to my very high standard.

It's important that you still look like YOU, so all editing is carefully done, and although I may do the odd nip and tuck where needed and smooth some skin, all you will think is WOW!

The end result

Once your shoot is complete, I start the post processing work, only selecting the very best images and finishing them off to a very high standard.

Usually within a week after your shoot you will receive access to your own private, password protected gallery on my website; so you can review your images and pick your favourites.

Depending on your chosen package, you will receive a number of image files (both in high and low, social media ready resolution) and 10x8 prints of your chosen images, but you are free to order more images if you so wish, and in a wide variety of sizes and formats.

Most of your images will be provided in both colour and black and white.

You can also purchase wall hanging framed or acrylic products and soon I will be introducing bespoke albums, so look out for those...

Your privacy

Your privacy is taken very seriously and I will never share your images online or in print without your written consent. Every image you see on the website has been approved by the woman in the photo; most of which have signed up to the #DareToShare discount, and every image is agreed with them in advance. You will never be pressured into sharing your photographs, and it is ultimately your choice.

Apart from a chaperone, (should you choose to bring one) I will be the only one in the room with you, and as a male photographer in this genre, making you feel comfortable is my absolute priority, allowing you to trust me to create some incredible images for you.

Whether you're a celebrity, have a high profile career, or like to keep your personal life private, I commit to keeping your images and personal information 100% confidential.

I can't wait to shoot with you, so please get in touch to arrange
